'QUIT MEDDLING!' SAYS MOLOTOV

Light Frost Reported as Mercury Dips to 40 Degrees

SUMMER 'COLD WAVE' DUE TO EASE SATURDAY

Area Crops Believed to Have Escaped Serious Damage; Warmer Forecast.

Mansfielders shivered in near-record low August temperatures today and light frost was reported near the city as the mercury dropped to 40. Readings as low as 36 were reported in other sections of the state.

The weatherman, who has had only bad news for farmers and gardeners during most of August, said the summer "cold wave" would ease a little by tomorrow and the holiday weekend would be generally fair and moderately warm.

A reading of 40 was recorded at the Ohio Public Service company's Longview substation from 2 to 5 a. m., today, while the Ohio agricultural experiment station at Wooster reported 36 degrees, lowest August mark there in 55 years.

Frost, reported in lowlands south of Mansfield, probably didn't harm crops but the cold is delaying the maturing crops and making them more susceptible to heavier frosts later, farmers said.

Elsewhere in the state cities reported temperatures in the low 40's while a number of communities recorded readings in the 30's.

Cold All Over.

Archbold and Findlay had readings of 37, Washington Court House, 38½, and Wilmington 39. The mercury stood at 40 degrees in Cincinnati, 42 at Marion and 47 at both Cleveland and Columbus.

Weathermen said it was possible for frost to nip plants near the ground in low areas at temperatures as high as 40 degrees.

Agriculture authorities said that once corn is subjected to 40-degree temperatures it never matures quite as it should, regardless of warmer weather thereafter.

The mercury had climbed to only 61 degrees in Mansfield at noon and the high reading recorded at the Hayesville weather station yesterday was 62 degrees.

The weather bureau forecast was for a partly cloudy sky and somewhat warmer temperatures tonight and Saturday, but cooler weather was in prospect again late Monday or Tuesday with the readings expected to average five degrees below normal.

CAKE FOR THOUSANDS: Charles F. Kettering, who was 70 yesterday, cuts the first slice of the seven-foot, 107-pound cake presented by the citizens of Loudonville at the celebration yesterday in the town's Central park, while charming Mrs. Helen Geisleman waits to serve the first piece to some of the thousands of persons who attended the party. At right, Kettering offers advice born of experience to Jess Hawkins, of Loudonville, driver of a 1909 Cadillac provided by General Motors for the parade of ancient cars. The Cadillac refused to start and had to be pulled by a team of horses. Some of Kettering's early experiments on auto ignition systems and self starters were on a model such as this. JURORS FAIL TO REACH DECISION

Unable to reach a decision after more than four hours of deliberation, the juvenile court jury which heard a contributing to delinquency charge against Mrs. Helen Sawyers, North Main street, was dismissed by Judge Stuart H. Cramer at 5:20 p. m. yesterday.

No plans for a retrial of the case, nor any decision as to the course of action to be pursued, had been decided upon today by extension of Mrs. Sawyer's $5,000 appearance bond.

Mrs. Sawyer is charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor by furnishing beer to a 17-year-old customer at the Big Three tavern where she is employed.

Evidence was completed in the case yesterday morning. Arguments were heard and the jury instructed just before the noon recess.

Assembling at 12:50 p. m., the veniremen remained closeted until 5:20 when they signalled they were unable to reach an agreement. One juror indicated the count was about nine for and three against acquittal.

The jury, composed of five women and seven men, included: Mrs. Marie Olds, Shelby; Mrs. Ruth A. Roads, Shelby; Wayne Stewart, Bellville; Mrs. Dorothy Leedy, Bellville; P. H. Smart, Mansfield; Clarence R. Young, Bellville; Charles W. Gatton, Mansfield; James Shea, Springfield township; Albert L. Allen, Mansfield; Mrs. Emma Byerly, Lucas; Bert Owens, Lexington, and Mrs. Ilma Stetson, Lucas.

OPENS DRIVE

Speeds Sale of War Surplus Goods to Veterans.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— War assets administration regional directors today began the gigantic task of preparing for a two-week "top priority" drive to see current stocks of surplus goods set aside for veterans.

The drive will begin Sept. 15 and WA Administrator Robert M. Littlejohn ordered regional directors and zone chiefs to "take whatever bold procedural steps are required" to sell out all stocks by Oct. 1.

Littlejohn instructed regional aides to determine immediately the status of stocks of set-aside items and file itemized inventory reports by Sept. 7.

President Bids Bermuda Farewell

WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN AT SEA—(AP)—President Truman sailed for Washington at dawn today on the last leg of his vacation cruise after an eight-day stop at the British island of Bermuda.

It was shortly after 5 a. m. (EDT) when the presidential yacht Williamsburg left its mooring in the harbor of the U. S. naval base at Bermuda and headed for home.

Prowler Traps Self On Roof of City Store

A 23-year-old Bowman street man trapped himself on a North Walnut street roof early today and had to ask the way to the ground.

He told police he didn't know how he got on the roof of the National Electric company, 80 North Walnut street.

But he had so thoroughly "boxed" himself in on the roof that he had to knock on the door of a home and ask a woman the way to freedom. Police said he had been drinking.

When he found himself trapped, detectives said, the youth apparently attempted to tear open a ventilator on the roof in order to escape. That proved futile. The ventilator had long ago been sealed up.

Then he knocked on the door of the home of Miss Cora Fisher, 80½ North Walnut street, about 5:30 a. m. and asked her how to get off of the roof. The door leads to the roof. A call to police soon followed.

Officers "captured" him soon after on the roof of the Bazley market, 85 North Walnut street, as he was making his last desperate bid for "freedom." They said they would charge him with being a suspicious person.

Five Thousand Join Loudonville In Tribute To Scientific Genius of 'Boss' Kettering

Antiques Remind of Scientist's Boyhood Days.

From Loudonville attics and store rooms came hundreds of antiques to fill town store windows with an interesting reminder yesterday of life in Loudonville 70 years ago when Charles Kettering was born, and in the years of his boyhood and young manhood.

There was everything from baby carriages to old newspapers; from wooden bread boxes to apothecary implements. One of the displays included a map of Loudonville as it was then known, at its founding in 1850, and the first account book of James Loudon Priest, founder of the town.

Old newspapers, telling of the town's first incorporated events and one dating back to the 1856 issue of the Ashland Times, were also on display. The Loudonville Times displayed copies of its old papers.

* * *

Birthday Newspaper.

And copies of the old Loudonville Advocate, dated on Kettering's first birthday, Aug. 29, 1876, were among the souvenirs given to dinner guests. These were also placed at a corner of Central Park for all who cared to have one of the day's momentoes.

In one window, miniatures of old and modern buses built by the Flxible company were on display. In another, antiques that were akin to "museum pieces" included such items as an old melodeon, tilt-top tables and coverlets.

* * *

Half Century of Fashion.

Fashions of fifty and more years ago were on display in another window and even hair-does of half a century ago came in for their share of attention.

In every nook and corner of Main street, were interesting suggestions of life in those days when "Boss Ket" roamed the fields of his home farm and came to town in the family buggy for weekly supplies.

15-Year-Old Grandson Shares In Birthday Party as Home Folks Fete Native Son.

By NITA BRANSON
News-Journal Staff Writer.

Charles Franklin Kettering, the small-town boy who went to the city to become one of America's most noted scientists and inventors, returned to his home town of Loudonville yesterday to celebrate his 70th birthday.

It was a day such as Loudonville had never known.

There have been memorable days in the history of the small Ashland county town but yesterday's celebration topped them all. There have been many memorable days in the life of Kettering, but it is doubtful if any was ever filled with such heart-warming, friendly and sincere sentiment as that planned for him by his home folks.

Festivities began at the Kettering farm about three miles from town. It was fitting that it should start there, for on Aug. 29, 1876, Kettering was born on that same farm. He grew up there a lanky, typical country boy, interested even in boyhood in "tinkering" with the farm machinery.

Five hundred guests, friends and business associates of "Boss Ket" as he is affectionately known by the "home folks," gathered there to give him the official and opening welcome and to eat a sumptuous dinner of turkey and baked ham, with all the trimmings.

* * *

Guests Ignore Drizzle.

It was drizzling a little when the first guests arrived. But by the time the crowd began to grow into the hundreds, the rain stopped and although the air was chilly and unpleasant, there was no dampening the enthusiasm of that dinner gathering.

"Boss Ket" was not the only one of his family thrilled by the celebration. His grandson, Charles, known as "Chuck" to his family and friends, was also a birthday celebrant.

When the affair was planned, Kettering agreed, on condition that this grandson would come along and help in the celebration, for Kettering and "Chuck" have always celebrated their birthdays together.

Chuck was 15 years old Wednesday. So he and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Kettering and his sisters of Hinsdale, Ill., were there to share in the honors.

Two of the proudest members of Kettering's family were his sister, Mrs. Charles Heyde, who lives at the farm home and his brother, Adam of Ashland.

300 Guests At Tables.

Dinner was served about 12:30 p. m. in the new implement shed which runs some 100 by 50 feet at the rear of the big white home. Three weeks ago that shed was a mere skeleton. But Rex Long, who not only manages expertly the Kettering farm, but seems to be a wizard at getting other things done as well, got busy on that

STORES CLOSE

Quiet Observance Planned For Labor Day.

Mansfield will celebrate Labor Day quietly Monday. City and county offices, stores, and factories will be closed to give employes a day's vacation on the last holiday of the summer. The post office and state offices also will close.

No citywide observance is planned, but city parks and nearby roadside parks probably will be jammed with picnickers if weather permits.

Most factories will be shut down Saturday with work being resumed Tuesday.

Scroll Presented At Gala Party For Inventor.

By GEORGE KNOX
News-Journal State Editor.

In one of the biggest celebrations of its history, Loudonville and more than 5,000 persons, yesterday paid tribute to the inventive genius of Charles F. Kettering at a gala party in Central park marking the inventor's 70th birthday.

Kettering, who was born on a farm two and one-half miles from the town, was presented a scroll by Hugo H. Young, president of the Flxible company, in behalf of the village during afternoon ceremonies that included a pageant, parade, and the cutting of a seven-foot birthday cake, also a gift of the village.

Inscribed on the parchment were words of tribute to the inventor's technical contributions and research and to his example of courage and faith in the day-by-day progress of men toward a better world.

In a brief reply to Young, Kettering, standing before a battery of microphones which broadcast his words over two major networks, said his faith in the future of America rested in the right of persons to be what they want to be and do what they want to do, for the betterment of mankind. He praised education but said that to know was not enough.

"We must also understand," the Ashland county native em-

AFL Workers End Protest Strike

CLEVELAND — (INS)— Nearly 30,000 AFL building tradesmen returned to their jobs today in three northern Ohio counties to end a one-day protest strike.

Members of 18 trades struck yesterday because of the tieups resulting from a carpenters' work stoppage which began Monday on commercial and industrial construction.

INDUSTRY AT PEAK OUTPUT

Civilian Employment Stands at All-Time High, CPA Chief Reports.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— America's basic industries were reported today at virtual capacity output. Production of consumer durables has in many cases surpassed pre-war levels.

But Civilian Production Chief John B. Small, in an otherwise rosy forecast, made it plain that labor trouble or inflation can still upset the applecart.

Not only are more goods being produced, Small said, but with civilian employment at an all-time high, more ready money is available to buy them with.

"The stop-and-go output of materials and parts which has been obstructing volume manufacturing has now been replaced by continuous, high-level production," he said in a monthly report.

"That means that industry is within sight of full production of finished goods if industrial peace continues."

Small said the "gross national product" in the second quarter of 1946 reached an annual rate of $130,000,000,000, figured in 1939's uninflated dollars. This is 17 per cent more than in 1941 and 45 per cent over 1939.

In the current quarter, he said, output may approach within five per cent of an all-time peak rate of $142,000,000,000, set in the war-producing second quarter of 1945.

TRIAL ENDS

Cossack Leader, Five Others Face Death Sentences.

MOSCOW—(AP)—Gen. Gregorie Semenov, grizzled Cossack counter-revolutionary leader, was sentenced today to be hanged and five of his co-defendants were ordered shot, at the end of their trial on charges of bearing arms against Russia and spying for Japan.

The remaining two defendants were given long prison terms at hard labor.

Semenov, 56-year-old onetime White Guard lieutenant general and leader of anti-Bolshevik Russians in Manchuria for a quarter of a century, asked for mercy in a final statement to the court, citing the full concession he made.

Foreign Policy's Campaign Issue

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Foreign policy edged into the political campaign as a potential issue today. Senator Hatch (D-NM) told a reporter he intends to make several speeches based on his contention that election of a Republican house this fall would be interpreted in world capitals as a "repudiation" of the administration's program.

Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio, G.O.P. congressional campaign director, said in a telephone interview he was surprised to hear of Hatch's plan in view of active Republican participation in both the Paris peace conference and the forthcoming United Nations meeting.

RUSSIAN RAPS U. S., BRITAIN FOR GREEK AID

Attack Fails to Halt Study of Albanian Border Fuss By Peace Conference.

PARIS — (INS) — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov told the Paris peace conference today that it was "high time" for Great Britain and the United States to stop meddling with the internal affairs of Greece.

Taking the floor during a bitter dispute over a Greek proposal that the conference consider the Greek-Albanian frontier, a matter not on the agenda, Molotov thundered:

"We know British troops are in Greece and that some warships are being sent from the United States.

"This means rendering serious support to the Greek government.

* * *

Demands Halt.

"I wonder if it isn't high time to put a stop to this interference with the internal affairs of the Greek people and give the Greek people the opportunity to elect freely their own government and decide their own policy.

"Yesterday it was said that observers will be sent from the United States and the United Kingdom for the elections (Sunday). Today it is said that only unofficial observers will be sent.

"This means some support is being rendered the present Greek government, despite the fact that the government is extremly unpopular among the people."

Molotov asked that the conference not consider the Greek request for review of the border dispute at this session, or at any future session.

* * *

Loses Vote.

Despite his impassioned address, the conference voted 12 to 7, with two abstentions, to consider the dispute at the next meeting. France alone of the western democracies sided with the Soviet bloc in the vote.

(A Reuter dispatch from Athens today quoted the newspaper Eleventh-Eriaxas saying: "There are indications that the United States is contemplating sending a token force to Greece, should the situation deteriorate.")

Molotov charged that Greece was raising the border issue to conceal internal terror on the eve of the plebiscite regarding the recall of King George II. He declared the Athens government was violently undemocratic and added:

"Greece brings up claims against Albania when Greece is in the vise of terrorism and when its democratic organizations are suppressed."

War-Separated Family of Four Wants a Home

(In the hope Mansfield can find housing for some of the 500 veterans needing homes, the News-Journal is presenting daily one typical case.)

This is the story of a family of four, separated for years by the war; now forced to live in different cities because the husband and father can't find housing accommodations.

It's the story of Dwight Carey.

Dwight spent five years and three months in service, working his way from a private to a lieutenant in the Air Forces. Most of that time he saw nothing of his wife and two children.

Came his discharge, Dwight joined the Ohio State Highway Patrol; was assigned to Mansfield.

For weeks on end, he sought living quarters for himself and his wife and two children. They patiently, as during those years of war, still await in Lima, the day when the family may be together as a unit again.

If you can help Dwight Carey find housing, please call the Veterans Information Center (1730-6).

Ugly War-Fear Ghosts Mock Peace Efforts

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story is not a prediction of war, but merely a picture and sampling of opinion and atmosphere surrounding the Paris peace conference. It is written by Relman Morin, veteran correspondent and chief of the AP's Paris bureau, who in recent months has traveled widely in western Europe.)

* * *

PARIS—(AP)—The peace conference appears now to be headed for failure and people in Paris, both foreigners and French, both those who know and those who only feel, are more profoundly depressed today than at any time since the last gun fired in Europe.

They feel World War III already is in sight.

They feel it may not come this year or next but there is little doubt any longer among people in Paris that it will come. That view is common to people in all quarters.

A few days ago I spoke with the foreign minister of one country. He has now gone home. He described himself as "a discouraged optimist, worn out and hopeless." Not long afterward I overheard a conversation between a French policeman and a waiter in a cafe a short distance from Luxembourg palace. "Keep the moths out of your uniform, old boy. You are going to need it."

The records of a French fact-finding organization, which attempts to test public opinion, show that the question being openly discussed now is: "If war breaks out between Russia and the United States, etc.?"

The situation has deteriorated greatly since the peace conference opened and more particularly within the last week.

There no longer is any doubt here about the totally irreconcilable policies of Russia and the bloc of Slavic nations which

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK — I have assembled all the objections of the New York state Republican organization, or machine, or gang, as I would call it if I were writing about the perfidious Democrats, to the nomination of Maj.-Gen. William J. Donovan for the United States senate. Here they go, on the floor.

In the first place, although it is good politics to name the man with the best chance of winning the election, the party leaders, or bosses, as I would call them if they were Democrats, take too much to themselves when they try to turn down the best available man, who is Donovan, and arbitrarily make his superior ability and knowledge unavailable to the nation. This consideration is especially poignant, a word I picked up out of the new republic, in view of the fact that Soviet Russia already has drawn first blood in wantonly killing a crew of unarmed American army fliers in Yugoslavia.

* * *

I wouldn't go as far as to say that Bill Donovan knows more about the politics and personalities of the Soviet conspiracy against the western civilization, culture and religion, particularly in the Balkans, than any other American but he certainly would know more about them than anyone else in the senate.

* * *

What I say is that the party leaders ought to remember that they owe a first duty to the people and have no right to flinch because they think it would be difficult to elect Donovan and offer Lieut.-Gen. Hugh Drum, instead, because they think Tom Dewey can carry Drum in on his coat tails. I don't believe they do have any such misgivings about Donovan's chances in a campaign as they profess to have, I say the objections are personal and matters of rivalry and anger.

The state federation of labor, which is the state organization of the A. F. L., is in no moral position to condemn any candidate as an enemy of labor on any grounds. The record of rotten unionism is so scandalous and the complacency of the boss unioneers is so notorious, as Governor Tom Dewey certainly knows from long experience as a prosecutor and as governor, that a smear from this quarter should be regarded as a badge of honor, and an endorsement as a frame-up.

The smear consists of a charge that, as United States district attorney, Donovan sent some unioneers to prison about 25 years ago for dynamiting a passenger car on a struck railroad.

Donovan pleads guilty of performing his sworn duty, in the interest of law, order and good government. To go right to the top of the A. F. of L., I would challenge William Green, its president, to cite a single occasion in which he similarly responded to the obligation of good citizenship to help the prosecution in any case against any dirty criminal in his official household.

Now it is beginning to come out that the anti-labor smear was only a euphemistic substitute for something nastier. Inasmuch as Donovan didn't take the hint and quit, the inmates of the smoke-filled room are beginning to monkey with a religious smear.

This smear would have it that, Donovan, a catholic, is in wrong with other catholics in New York because Mrs Donovan is a protestant. I know religion as an issue usually is whispered and not printed but I see no reason to follow that rule.

Just when they are beginning to get off their knees after spending the last 14 years on the floor, the Republicans are acting like a lot of Democrats, fighting among themselves and smearing their best candidate for senator with stuff that the other side wouldn't dare use. Having said they could not carry him, it remains to be seen how hard they will try if he beats them in the convention.

Not a single young war veteran in either party has shown sufficient class or stuff to command serious consideration. In the Republican convention it will be Donovan, a major-general but a civilian by trade, or Drum, a retired lieutenant-general. The Democrats are choosing between Lehman and La Guardia, both flops in the European relief business, although Lehman, of course, by contrast with La G., has a respectable previous record and probably will be the nominee.

Hal Boyle — Globe-Jotting

By JOHN P. McKNIGHT
(For Hal Boyle)

VENICE—(AP)—It is a sad thing to have to relate, but this tourist rode the waters of Venice in a gondola for a solid hour—under a full moon, too—and heard not a single snatch of "O Sole Mio."

Over the satiny surface of the Canale Della Grazia and the Canale Orfanello, there floated in that hushed hour only the whistled strains of "One O'clock Jump," and a sandpaper-textured voice singing Hoagy Carmichael's "Stardust" in heavily accented English to a two-chord guitar accompaniment.

When the gondolier, one Virgilio Scarpa, was asked the reasons for this break with hoary tradition, he contrived to create the illusion of spreading his hands and shrugging his shoulders the while he continued to heave at his paddle and replied laconically:

"Le guerra, signore."

* * *

Take it from Virgilio, the gondola business, which has been his for the 21 years since he was 15, is shot all to pieces.

* * *

"There used to be 600 of us licensed gondoliers," he said sadly. "Now there are only 460. The old men have been pensioned off. The young men went off to the wars and some have not come back. And there are many who see no future in it and have found other work to do."

It is the war, Virgilio repeated in his soft Venetian dialect.

"No more do the tourists come as they used to do. The Allied soldiers? They spent much at first, especially the English, but not so much now. However—"

His face brightened visibly in the moonlight.

"However, the Americani have come (the wives and families of many of the American officers and men in Allied-occupied Venezia Giulia are quartered in requisitioned hotels in Venice) and the Americani always spend."

Next year? Virgilio shrugged again, philosophically.

The prospect of obtaining a fee many times what a Venetian would pay for the use of his boat brought from Virgilio these additional oddments of information:

"It is pronounced gon-dola, with the accent on the first syllable, and not gondo-la, as in the lately popular Tin Pan Alley tune. The business is handed down from father to son. Virgilio being the third generation in a gondolier family.

Gondolas, most of which are made by one Venetian firm, are four feet wide and 36 feet long. They weigh about 1,250 pounds, seat two persons in plushy intimacy and two others in jump-seat discomfort, and if given reasonable care last up to 25 years.

Gondolas are uniform in size, shape and color, which is black, and in their trappings, including the distinctive iron prow which is shaped like a halberd. This is because the Venetian senate, irked at seeing too much money wasted on fancying up the craft, ordered it so centuries ago.

The hull is one piece of oak and before the war all of it came from Yugoslavia. And now? "Basta (enough said)," said Virgilio and shrugged his shoulders again.

2,249 Vets In 10 Counties Receiving VA Training

The Mansfield sub-regional office of the Veterans Administration, which has expanded ten-fold since its opening here at the first of the year, has placed 2,249 area veterans in VA-sponsored training, it announced today.

Statewide, one out of every three Ohio veterans of World War II has filed application with the VA for education and training or vocational rehabilitation, making a total of 195,238 applications received.

Statistics released by the Mansfield VA office, which serves a ten-county area, showed 1,457 veterans engaged in on-the-job training, 192 disabled veterans receiving special training and attention, and 309 World War II veterans taking institutional training.

In addition to these, 191 veterans have been placed in agricultural schooling and 100 in commercial schooling.

Ohio ex-servicemen and women in education or training under the GI bill of rights last month numbered 52,803, according to figures released by the VA branch office in Columbus.

VA officials said several thousand ex-GIs have obtained certificates of eligibility for education, even though they do not plan to make use of them until later.

This practice is encouraged by VA officials who urge veterans to apply for such certificates immediately if they plan to enter school or training this fall.

The public relations division of the United States forces of the European theater confirmed a disclosure from Stuttgart last night of the arrest of the alleged spies. The division said that 14 Germans were in prison awaiting trial on espionage charges.

Contending that he suffered permanent injuries when a waitress in the Elms tavern struck him, Henry J. Fisher, 230 Park avenue east, yesterday filed suit in common pleas court asking $25,900 damages from Karl W. Herring, the tavern's proprietor.

Fisher asserted that his right foot was broken in two places when "Peg" Elliott, the waitress, struck and pushed him, upsetting his stool and causing him to fall in the tavern on the evening of Feb. 15, 1946. He said he had a hospital bill of $366.22 and a doctor bill of $535 as the result of his injuries and that the services of a doctor still are required.

HARKING BACK—

One of the oldest documents to come into the Richland county auditor's office recently is a deed involving the transfer of inlot 54 at Shelby which was sold at sheriff's sale to Emanuel Lawson in 1861 and transferred to him by the deed of Jonas Smith, who was auditor at that time. John Meredith, who was probate judge then, attested to the document. The deed was of crisp parchment-like paper, yellowed with age. The printing on it was of old-fashioned script and the signatures bore flourishes and shadings that were characteristic of the period.

FUMES FROM REFRIGERATOR HALT FIREMEN

Two Companies Extinguish Flames Early Today in East Fourth Building.

Firemen had to don gas masks and smash a door in order to extinguish a fire in an apartment at 131½ East Fourth street shortly after 8 a. m. today.

Firemen said the blaze apparently started in a defective refrigerator motor in the apartment of Estelle Sheeks.

The flames damaged the refrigerator and spread to wall paper and linoleum in the kitchen and wallpaper and paint in an adjoining room. There was no immediate estimate of the damage.

The second floor apartment was empty when firemen arrived. When the locked door was broken in gas fumes rushed out, firemen said.

They quickly put on masks and re-entered the apartment, one company coming in from the front, the other from the rear. They fought the blaze for about an hour.

No injuries were reported and firemen said that the entire building apparently was empty at the time of the fire.

OPA Grants Garment Price Boost For 4th Time.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — OPA tagged cotton garments with another price boost today and dolefully acknowledged it may not be the last.

The new increase, about two and one-half percent at textile mills, will mean another hike of one to two per cent on cotton apparel sold at retail, the agency said.

Today's upward revision, the fourth since March, brought the total jump for basic fabrics to more than 30 per cent.

Return From GAR Session

Three Mansfield delegates of the Sons of Union Veterans had returned today from Indianapolis where they attended the national encampment of the GAR.

Representing the city at the meet were L. A. Capwell, R. D. 4; William G. Myers, 143 Boughton avenue and Charles Cromer, 54 Glessner avenue.

John H. Grate, 101-year-old Civil war veteran from Atwater, O., was chosen commander-in-chief of the GAR at closing sessions yesterday.

Capwell denied a previous report that this year's encampment would be the last. He said several of the veterans would still be able to attend others and when they are gone, their sons will carry on.

First Richland County Diamond Meet Begins Sunday

Hal Clawson

Returning servicemen are not only swelling the ranks of the colleges but they're also returning to the high school classrooms to finish their scholastic work.

Many fine athletes dropped out of school to enter the service and, like their older college brothers, will be back hitting the books this fall.

Coach Paul Snyder will welcome two former players back to his squad this fall. Both have been in the Marines.

Marion Luyaeona is already back having reported to the Tyger grid camp Monday morning after getting out of the service on Sunday.

Scheduled to arrive home soon is Bob Marth, 200-pound tackle who gained honorable mention for all-Ohio in 1944.

And all this is bringing to High School Commissioner H. W. Emswiler plenty of inquiries as to the eligibility of [illegible] players

* * *

"There seems to be a mistaken idea that the 20-year-age limit is "being waived in the case of veterans," states Emswiler "That's not true. In the first place, any provision like that would have to be approved by a referendum vote of all the schools in the state."

* * *

The commissioner is definitely against making any changes in age limits. He believes the fellows, especially those over 20, come back from military life too mature to compete with teen-agers.

"I'll admit it's rough on the veterans to bar them," Emswiler has announced, "but it would be dangerous to toss them in against youngsters of 15, 16 and 17."

Kentucky tried making exceptions to its age rule last year but finally had to return to its old code.

Kenton, site of the Leavy Oak National Coondog Field Trials for the past 18 years, will lose the big event this year.

Because the Hardin county fairgrounds will be unavailable, the classic has been moved to Larue in Marion county and is set for Sept. 1 and 2.

Purses totaling $5,000 are offered with the champion dog receiving $1,000.

The United Kennel club will hold a bench show for registered coondogs in conjunction with the field trials.

Staff Tests Varsity In Scrimmage

Mansfield Tyger coaching staff will get a line on the playing potentials of the greener gridders on the 1946 squad in tomorrow morning's scrimmage against Coach Ike Trubey's club at Elyria.

The two hour drill gets under way at 10 o'clock and Tyger Mentor Paul Snyder plans to use the least experienced members of the 33-man varsity squad during most of the session. The contact workout ends the second week of Mansfield pigskin practice.

With the exception of minor injuries suffered by Tackles Dave Boals and Tom Nixon and Ross Frisbee, blocking back, the Tygers are in good shape for their stiffest workout.

Each eleven will go on the offensive for a set number of plays in tomorrow's test-tube clash.

Bob Rondy, senior letterman, has been shifted to guard. He was a blocking back on the 1945 Senior high squad.

Barnes Upset By Humphryes

Humphryes Manufacturing softballers handed Barnes Manufacturing its second loss in 11 games in an Industrial league upset last night on the North Lake diamond, 5 to 2.

The defeat left the district championship Barnes outfit a game out in front of Gorman-Rupp and Humphryes. The latter clubs have won eight and lost three.

Dale McKinley's classy two-hit mound effort turned the trick. Humphryes scored twice in the opening frame but Barnes cut into the lead with a single tally in the [illegible] However, Humphryes pushed across another counter in the [illegible] of the third to clinch the result.

Nancy Merki, 20, who took up swimming after suffering from infantile paralysis, broke both the Shakamak and American records for the national senior women's 300-meter individual medley in the outdoor meet at Shakamak Park, Indiana, last week. Parker, War-Time Champ, Has To Lay It On Line In Nationals

NEW YORK — (AP) — Another wartime champ will have to lay it on the line tomorrow and attempt to prove to 97 doubting rivals that he still can take them over the bumps when the bugles aren't blowing.

Frankie Parker, who has ruled the national tennis roost for two straight years, will find himself up against one of the biggest fields ever, though not necessarily one of the best, in the first postwar championships starting tomorrow at Forest Hills.

Tennis upper crust had been saying Parker would do a quick fade-out when the likes of Jack Kramer, Ted Schroeder and Don McNeill returned to the lists.

But now the boys are not too sure. Kramer has been having too many blisters on his racket hand, and Schroeder has dropped out of the championships to return to California and hurry-up the workmen who are building him a house. Yvon Petra, the tall Frenchman who won at Wimbledon, is a possible stopper.

When the seedings were announced yesterday, there was Parker at No. 1, followed by Kramer, Gardnar Mulloy, William Talbert, Don McNeill, Tom Brown, jr., Pancho Segura and Bob Falkenburg, in that order.

Pauline Betz was, of course, Seeded No. 1 in the women's division. Mrs Sarah Palfrey Cooke, who beat her in the finals last year, is not defending. Shirley Fry was seeded No. 7.

ANOTHER LOUIS

NEPTUNE, N. J.—(UP)—A new staff of sparring partners was expected at Tami Mauriello's training camp today to replace the five men who quit, complaining that the heavyweight challenger hit them too hard.

Staggering Indians End Sad Trip

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians staggered into the west today after one of the most disastrous eastern tours in recent years.

The slumping Tribesmen won only one of 10 starts along the seaboard and are hopeful that the competition will be more hospitable in the other half of the league.

The Indians appear in an exhibition today with the Milwaukee club of the American association where President Bill Veeck first gained national fame in the baseball promotion field.

Saturday and Sunday they'll play in Chicago. From there they'll move to St. Louis and then Detroit for the closing series.

* * *

Steve Gromek, who has gone without a victory since June 28, failed again yesterday as the New York Yankees plastered the Tribe with a 9 to 7 loss to sweep the two-game series.

* * *

The Indians made such a miserable showing that Manager Lou Boudreau withdrew from the lineup in the eighth and sent Comedian Johnny Price to shortstop.

Randy Gumpert permitted the Indians a second-inning score, their first in 18 innings, then settled down and coasted to the finish.

The Yanks rapped Gromek and reliefer Bob Lemon for 12 blows, including a home run by Joe Gordon.

11 Lettermen Seek Posts

SHELBY—Eleven lettermen from last year's team are among the 60 Shelby high school football candidates working out under the direction of Coach Al Fendrick and his aides.

Lettermen back from the 1945 grid team which won five, tied one and lost three games include Stanton Jones, Bill Thompson, John Hardie, Kenneth Alberts, Charles Phillips, Jim Anderson, Dick Seitz, Charles Bly, Jim Reed, Jim Dick and Bill Hassler.

The Whippets finished in fourth place in the Northern Ohio league last year.

Shelby's schedule opens at New Philadelphia with a non-league game Sept. 13. It will be the first meeting on the gridiron between the two teams.

HE OF THE RIFLE ARM: Glenn Dobbs, former Tulsa All-America, will attempt to toss strikes for the Brooklyn football Dodgers when they meet Paul Brown's Cleveland Browns in an exhibition tussle tonight in Akron's Rubber Bowl. Listed as one of the greatest college passers developed in recent years, Dobbs has sparkled in the Dodgers two 1946 exhibition tussles.

Ohio State Has Contact Drill

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Ohio State's 1956 Bucks had their first scrimmage under their belts today.

Coach Paul Bixler sent his charges through half-hour contact sessions in both morning and afternoon despite a limited repertoire of only about ten plays.

More than an hour was devoted to passing in the afternoon practice period as Bixler made an early start toward perfecting his air arm.

The Buck squad was down to 112 men with more expected to be cut today and tomorrow.

Ensign Hanover's Horse To Beat In Little Brown Jug

DELAWARE — With only one more tune-up scheduled for most of the eligibles before they meet over the country's fastest half-mile track at Delaware, Ensign Hanover still is the horse to beat in the $36,000 Little Brown Jug on Sept. 18

Although the flying little chestnut [illegible] Mrs. James B. Johnson's stable turned in the fastest time of his [illegible]-year career at Du Quoin, Ill., this week, there were indications that he may not have an easy time in picking up the major share of the richest race ever held for three-year old pacers

The son of Billy Direct, handled by the veteran, Seph Palin, paced the three heats at Du Quoin in 2 03.3, 2 03 1 and 2.03 2. That was really stepping over a mile track rated the fastest of its kind.

High-Flying Cards Blank Giants to Increase Lead

Brooks Drop Off Pace With Loss to Chicago

By JOE REICHLER, AP Sports Writer.

Racing down the stretch, the St. Louis Cardinals are trying to explode the theory that the team in first place on July Fourth usually wins the pennant.

On that day the Cards were trailing the National league leading Brooklyn Dodgers by seven and a half games and appeared hopelessly out of the race. Today they are 2½ games in front of the Flock.

The Cards gained a full game yesterday when they shut out the New York Giants 4-0 as the Chicago Cubs were beating the Dodgers 3-2.

* * *

Howie Pollet, the Cards' ace, hurled the shutout over the Giants, limiting the New Yorkers to five hits in registering his 17th triumph. Dave Koslo lost his 15th game.

* * *

Phil Cavarretta's seventh inning single broke a 2-2 tie for Hank Borowy's ninth victory in the Cubs-Dodger tilt.

The victory moved Chicago only six games behind the Dodgers.

Detroit, which hadn't won a game at Fenway park until Wednesday, made it two straight over the Boston Red Sox, 9-8, in 14 innings. The winning run resulted in George Kell's walk, a single by Roger Cramer and a force play by Hank Greenberg. . . . Dizzy Trout, in relief, won his 11th game while Dave (Boo) Ferriss, trying for his 12th straight, was driven from the box in the sixth.

The Boston Braves' hopes to overtake the third place Cubs remained alive when they defeated the Reds in Cincinnati, 4-1, behind the six-hit pitching of Ed Wright.

The season's record low of 1,124 saw the Philadelphia Phillies shove the Pirates deeper into the National league cellar with a 5-2 victory in Pittsburgh.

The scheduled Chicago White Sox-Washington game was postponed by rain while the Philadelphia Athletics and St. Louis Browns were idle.

Blazin' Ben Big Favorite

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The $15,000 Golden State Open, biggest summer golf tournament ever staged in Southern California, got away winging today with 144 shotsmiths, headed by Blazin' Ben Hogan, teeing off at California Country club's cozy layout.

Hogan, winner of last week's PGA tourney at Portland, was a hot favorite to grab his 11th major title of the year and add to his pro-leading winnings of $33,377 for 1946.

But every major winner except Byron (Bad Back) Nelson and Sammy Snead, English Open champion, was on the premises, ready to shatter par 71 for the short but hilly 6,328-yard course. Chief threats to the 135-pound Hershey, Pa., wizard were the following tourney victors:

GARRULOUS DIZ DONS UNIFORM FOR A DAY

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—A couple of one-time major league baseball stars are going to put on uniforms again.

Dizzy Dean, former star pitcher, and Gabby Street, who once caught the fireball of the great Walter Johnson, will participate in a long-ball hitting contest between Detroit and the St. Louis Browns Sunday.

Dean will pitch to the batters; Street will do the catching.

WESTBROOK GOLF

Scores turned in tomorrow, Sunday and Monday will count for low gross and low net honors in the Westbrook country club weekend competition.

BUCKEYE BULWARK: Mansfielder Bill Doolittle (above) is listed as the No. 3 quarterback on Paul Bixler's first Ohio State grid machine. The sturdy 200-pound back is an excellent blocker and defensive man. Doolittle, a sophomore, will see plenty of action as a relief man for ace-passers Tommy Phillips and Dick Palmer. He is one of the Bucks' better place kickers.

Top Marksmen Invade Perry

CAMP PERRY, O.—(AP)—More than 1,200 of the nation's top-flight pistol and small-bore rifle marksmen will invade this Ohio National Guard camp tomorrow for the 62nd annual National Rifle and Pistol championships scheduled to run through Sept. 8.

Actual shooting starts next Tuesday, but until then the Dead-eye Dicks and Doras will attend the war department's small arms firing school which traditionally opens the annual bullet barrage which hasn't been held since 1941 because of the war.

During the six-day test the huge entry of men and women will overflow the grassy, mile-long rifle and pistol ranges, firing more than a million rounds of ammunition in quest of the top U. S. marksmanship laurels.

TEAM TO MEET

Skeeter's Sohio service station baseball team will meet tonight at 6 o'clock at the home of Ernie Washington, 830 Springmill street.

AA Leaders Hold Spots

(By Associated Press)

Louisville and Indianapolis, battling for first place in the American Association, had open dates today but they were getting ready to clash in two series of three games each which conceivably could decide the 1946 pennant winner.

The Indians, winning their sixth straight last night in defeating Toledo 8 to 4, trail the Colonels by 1½ games. Louisville maintained its edge by beating Columbus 7 to 4.

The Colonels open a three game series at Indianapolis tomorrow, followed by a double-header on Sunday. The teams then move to Louisville for a pair of games on Labor Day and a third contest Tuesday.

In the only other scheduled league game last night, St. Paul defeated Minneapolis 7 to 3, to give the Saints their 10th win over the Millers in 16 contests this season.

At Louisville, the Colonels and Columbus were tied 4 to 4 going into the eighth but singles by Fred Walters and Chick Genovese and successive triples by Chuck Koney and Jack Albright scored three runs and clinched the game for the Colonels.

Soldiers of Czarist Russia used to be given a bag of 2 1-5 pounds of sunflower seed a day as an iron ration.

150 ENTERED IN OHIO AAU SWIMMING MEET

AKRON—(AP)—A field of 150 of the state's leading swimmers have entered the annual Ohio State AAU swimming and diving championships at the waterworks pool in nearby Cuyahoga Falls Saturday, tournament manager Harry Minto announced today.

Finals in 17 events will be held Saturday afternoon with Ohio State and Akron Firestone club looming as favorites.

Paul Brown's Cleveland Pros Collide With Dodgers Grid 11 In Ohio All-America Prevue

By JOHN G. DIETRICH
(U. P. Sports Writer)

AKRON — Paul Brown will put his latest football extravaganza on the road here tonight when his Cleveland Browns meet the Brooklyn Dodgers in a prevue of the All-American Conference's first season.

The game is something more than a mere exhibition, for it will serve as a possible tipoff both on the real quality of Brown's first professional team and of its drawing power in the Northeastern Ohio area.

The situation is somewhat reminiscent of the Ohio State-Missouri game that opened the 1941 season. That was Brown's first game as a big-time college coach fresh from the Massillon high school football field. His Buckeyes won that one, 13-7, after some agonizing moments.

* * *

Arrayed against the Browns was a gridiron aerial circus put together by former New York university coach Dr. Mal Stevens and headed by Glenn Dobbs, the Tulsa tosser.

* * *

Scouts who watched the Dodgers against the Chicago Rockets and New York Yankees on the west coast reported that Stevens had concocted an offense that ran off the single wing, double wing and "T," or variations thereof.

The Dodgers line up with unbalanced lines that have five men on one side of the center, and generally perform in an unorthodox manner guaranteed to warm the hearts of Ebbetts Field fans.

But there is nothing funny about Dobbs. He's a rifle passer who stands six feet four inches tall, weighs 225 pounds and can run with the best of them.

* * *

The Browns were ready with a backfield corps that included Otto Graham, the Northwestern great; Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones of Pitt, and Gene Fekete, rib-crushing fullback from Ohio State.

* * *

A crowd of more than 30,000 was expected for this first public showing of Cleveland taxi-cab magnate Art McBride's quarter of a million dollar gridiron investment. That would fall some 7,000 short of capacity for the Rubber Bowl.

Tentative starting lineups:

Cleveland	POs	Brooklyn
Speedie, Utah	LE	Adams, Ark.
Daniell, O. S.	LT	Daukas, Dart.
Ulinski, Marsh.	LG	Obeck, Spring.
Scarry, Waynsbrg	C	Warnston, Aub.
Willis, O. S.	RG	Buffington, Oak.
Rymkus, N. D.	RT	Ruby, Texas
Yonaker, N. D.	RE	Davis, S. Cal.
Graham, Nowstrn	QB	Worst, Man.
Jones, Pittsburgh	LH	Dobbs, Tulsa
Greenwild, Ill.	RH	Principe, Ford.
Fekete, O. S.	FB	Paffrath, Minn.

Winters, Stailey Meet For Title

BUCYRUS — Jay Winters and Robert Stailey, both previous holders of the President's cup at Bucyrus Country club, are contenders for the trophy following preliminary matches played during the last two weeks.

Winters defeated Ken Gallant, last year's cup holder, in the semi-finals this week and will meet Stailey for the 36 hole finals Sunday and Monday. Play is also in progress in the Chuck-Walt tournament for players 35 years of age or older.

LAST DAY

Entry list for the seventh annual Richland county golf tournament closes tomorrow. Entries are being received at the office of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Army, Navy Move Into Serious Training With Many Problems

NEW YORK—(AP)—Army, national collegiate football champion for the past two years, and Navy, its principal challenger those years both moved into serious training for the 1946 season today, and both faced serious problems.

For the Army the problem was one of morale; for the Navy it was a simple problem of manpower.

Coach Earl Blaik's Cadets reported yesterday, 50 strong, headed by 14 lettermen, including Fullback Doc Blanchard and Half-back Glenn Davis, both All-Americans. Also in uniform was Halfback Tom McWilliams, source of part of the Army problem.

McWilliams was a star at Mississippi State before getting an appointment to West Point, and reportedly has tried to resign from the academy, but was refused because he is a football player. A Jackson, Miss., sports editor said today that McWilliams had resigned again, and that Army would have to accept this time or admit that it was hoarding football players.

The shadow of this dispute, plus the knowledge that every team on the schedule will be pointing for Army, lay over yesterday's opening drill, but Blaik was not bothered as he directed the squad in conditioning exercises. Army opens at West Point against Villanova Sept. 21.

Navy's 88 football candidates were at Martha's Vineyard, Mass., for early practice, and went through a stationary scrimmage that proved to be a rough test for the players.

Only four starters from last year were present, and the loss of Clyde Scott, Tony Minisi, Bob Hoerschmeyer, George Sundheim, Bob Kelly and others who have been flunked out or resigned was painfully apparent.

But Capt. Tom Hamilton, back for another term as head coach, was optimistic. Contrary to usual football coach behavior, he said he thought his squad might "knock off everybody, including Army."

Capt. Leon Bramlett, an end, All-American Center Dick Scott, Guard Jim Carrington and Fullback Joe Bartos are the veteran holdovers.

Brazilians Riot In Streets As Economic Troubles Grow

RIO DE JANEIRO—(AP)—Brazil's economic crisis is now so grave that people have begun to riot in the streets and to break into stores to get food.

In the town of Taubate recently a hungry mob of some 4,000 marched into the three largest grocery stores and carried off sacks of rice, beans, flour and cans of cooking fat.

In Sao Bernardo, a woman, Dona Tereza Delta, led a hunger march of several thousand to the city hall where they demanded sugar, bread and milk but were dispersed by the police.

In this capital city of more than two million residents, people ransacked a dairy products store which they claimed had sold them synthetic butter and adulterated milk.

Black Market Booms.

The black market is flourishing in Brazil in almost every kind of commodity, and in the city of Porto Alegre a band of "Maquis" is threatening merchants there for unscrupulous practices.

A similar band of "vigilantes" at work in the industrial metropolis of Sao Paulo "to fight those who exploit the people" is "organized without regard to politics, profession or religion."

The railroads of Sao Paulo, connecting the city with its seaport at Santos have been on strike for "living" wages and villages along the line are offering "solidarity" with the workers.

Meanwhile, prices are rising rapidly. Rents are expected to jump from 20 to 50 per cent as wartime ceilings are removed, and utilities and transportation have government permission for increases.

The food shortage in this large and productive country prompted Col. Alcides Goncalves Etchegoyen, former federal police chief, to suggest the death penalty for black marketeers.

The present head of the powerful federal police, Jose Pereira Lira, charges the Communists with fomenting the disorders.

In reply, Senator Luis Carlos Prestes, secretary general of the Communist party, told the Associated Press that the police chief's statement was "absurd" and "without factual foundation."

Competent impartial observers believe the riots have an economic rather than a political motive although they concede that the Communists are gaining strength from the present turmoil.

"If the present situation continues, with the people at the mercy of the exploiters, we will have a social revolution in Brazil," said a Sao Paulo business man, Roberto Moreira.

His remark was headlined here just as the congress began to debate giving the president the power to invoke a state of siege in the text of the nation's forthcoming constitution.

Under a state of siege, the executive power could suspend all rights and govern with sweeping jurisdiction. Commenting on this, War Minister Goes Monteiro told the press:

General Goes Monteiro, who led the movement that brought Getulio Vargas to power in 1930 and the one that ousted Vargas in 1945, added: "There is not much time to lose."

Monteiro said that the army might have to intervene to break up black market operations.

The army already is charged with procuring and distributing essential foodstuffs in Rio de Janeiro, plagued with shortages in meat, coffee, sugar, bread, salt, matches and milk.

General Scarcela Portela heads an army supply mission which buys foodstuffs in the interior and distributes them to stores here to prevent black marketing on large scale shipments.

The army has not yet acted in any case of food rioting, but police arrested ten demonstrators in Taubate, broke up the city hall march in Sao Bernardo and imprisoned a storekeeper here.

Police were put on the alert in Porto Alegre when "Maquis" there found sacks of wheat flour cached away while the stores asked $29 a sack. The crowd took off 50 sacks.

An Associated Press staff member recently paid $2.25 for one kilogram of shrimp, $1.50 for a kilogram of butter, $17.50 for a durable pair of shoes and $8 for a shirt.

One staff member, living in an apartment he rented six years ago, pays $32.50 a month while another who recently moved into the same neighborhood paid $400 for the privilege of paying $75 a month.

GYPSY ROSE LEE, the striptease gal, caught this husky musky (it says here) while on a vacation in northern Wisconsin. Gypsy claims she caught the fish in the orthodox manner. Others say the fish just surrendered.

Pros Involved In Suit No. 4

NEW YORK—(CP)—Law suit No. 4, between the All-America Football conference and the National Football league, was in the making today with Gerard Ramsey, outstanding guard from William & Mary, as the prize.

Owner Dan Topping of the New York grid Yankees notified Ramsey that he would be given one week to decide.

A letter has been sent to Ramsey at the Cardinals' Waukesha, Wis., training camp, warning him that the Yankees expect him to live up to a player contract he signed with the team, Topping announced through his offices here.

After signing with the New York team, Ramsey, star in the recent Chicago All-Star game, allegedly told Topping that he was going to forego pro football and coach at Auburn. He later reportedly signed a contract with Owner Charles Bidwill of the Cardinals.

Topping, at the Yankees' Pasadena, Cal., training camp, said that if Ramsey did not report to his club he would also serve papers on Bidwill, charging the wealthy Chicago sportsman with inducing the player to breach his All-America contract.

BIG CELEBRATION

MEXICO CITY—(CP)—Danny Gardella, former New York Giant outfielder, and two of his teammates on the Veracruz team of the Mexican baseball league dug into their pockets today to pay a $100 fine imposed for "too much celebration before a game."

PIRATES BUY TWO

PITTSBURGH—(CP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates today announced the purchase of right-hand Pitcher Manuel Perez and Outfielder Frank Kalin from Hollywood of the Pacific Coast league under cash terms of a working agreement.

Patty Shoots For $750

SPOKANE, Wash.—(AP)—Genial little Patty Berg, Minneapolis professional who already has collected $850 in the $19,700 National Women's Open Golf tournament, shoots for another $750 today as she plays husky Mrs. Jackie Pung of Honolulu in an 18-hole quarter-final match.

Two other women pros who also have won $850 to date in the "64 dollar question" tourney, also were left in the round-of-eight.

They were little Betty Hicks, the Duration Women's Amateur champion who since turned pro, and Betty Jameson, twice a Women's National champion, who likewise switched to financial golf.

Betty Hicks plays Spokane's favorite, amateur Betty Jean Rucker, two-time Pacific Northwest champion, and Betty Jameson contends with Giant-Killer Ellen Keiser of San Francisco.

OSL Flag Race Getting Hot

(By Associated Press)

The longstanding Ohio State league scraps for first and third places were closer Friday, and a new rivalry sprang up as Dayton struggled to climb over Middletown and out of last place.

The Dayton Indians whitewashed the Middletown Reds 6-0 Thursday night for their fifth straight home victory over the seventh-placers in three days. Joe Jackson limited the Reds to four hits.

Middletown is now two and a half games ahead of Dayton and the same distance behind Marion, which nudged the Reds out of sixth place a few days ago. Marion blanked Newark 2-0 on hurling by Fred Fass and Joe Roseberry.

In the rivalry for first place, Zanesville whipped the Lima Terriers 9-3 to cut to two games the lead of Springfield which lost at Richmond 6-4. Hank Williams of Lima walked the first five batters to face him, getting Zanesville off to a four-run lead in the first frame. Richmond's victory, paced by Centerfielder Bill Reardon's four hits in four trips, left it only a half game behind third-place Newark.

LIGHT SALES PUSH MARKET TO NEW LOW

Brokers See No Reason For Resumption of Decline; Blame Timidity.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Stocks generally succumbed to light selling today with the market averages dipping to a new bottom since last October.

Brokers saw little in the spot news to account for the resumption of the decline and most blamed in on the trimming of accounts by timid clients for protection over the lengthy weekend. Steels, motors, rails and rubbers were the soft groups.

Conspicuous on the downside were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler (at a 1946 low), General Motors, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, American Telephone, Anaconda, Kennecott, Standard Oil (N.J.), Montgomery Ward, Caterpillar Tractor, Douglas Aircraft, American Can, General Electric, Du Pont, Union Carbide and Allied Chemical.

City Listed As Stone Fort On Early Map

Mansfield's name first appeared on a map made in 1812, Ernest Wessen, Mansfield bibliographer, said Thursday noon in a talk before the Kiwanis club in the Mansfield-Leland hotel

He exhibited the 1812 map, together with an earlier one on which the location of Mansfield was indicated as a "stone fort built by Ottawas," and several documents pertaining to the War of 1812.

Stressing the importance of a knowledge of history, Wessen said he wondered "how those who forget history can understand today's news"

He saw hope, however, in the fact that industry, as well as educators, "are coming to realize the great need for a better understanding of the details of history."

Three Injured While At Work

Three persons were injured, one seriously, in traffic accidents yesterday.

Harrison Hess, 37, of the T and hotel, suffered abrasions, bruises, and lacerations, last night when he 'laid down" his motorcycle to avoid colliding with a car driven by William A. Perry, 375 Springmill street.

State Highway Patrol officers said Perry pulled out of the trailer camp on the Ashland hill, U. S. route 42 in front of the cyclist. Perry was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way and was granted a continuance of his case in Municipal court today until Sept. 4. He pleaded innocent.

Injured in the Columbus area yesterday was Rudolph C Blumenfenkel, 19, of Lexington, and Herman E Rice 23, of Willard The Lexington youth was reported in fair condition in St Vincences hospital after he suffered a fractured right leg when his motorcycle was in a collision with a car driven by Marion Scribner of Lion, on the Westerville road near Dunedin road

Rice was treated in University hospital for a deep cut on his left arm after his car was in a collision with a car driven by Barry M Gregg of Columbus The accident occurred at the corner of High street and Torrence road, police reported

shed. Yesterday there was not even a door missing. In it were placed four long tables at which about 300 guests were served at one time

At the table where "Boss Ket" and his family and friends sat, a big basket of white gladioli, marked Kettering's place. On each of the other tables were bowls of late summer flowers mingled with trailing greens.

Waitresses were women employes of the Flxible company of which Kettering is chairman of the board Just as proud and happy over the whole thing was Hugo H. Young, president and general manager of that company, for whom Kettering proved a source of inspiration and encouragement back in 1916 when Young started the first small Flxible factory, manufacturing flexible sidecars.

Through the years, "Boss Ket" has continued to give his advice and friendship to Young and to the company in which he has been so vitally interested

Classmate Is Emcee.

Following the dinner yesterday, there was an impromptu program, given on an improvised truck platform. Dr. Gaillard B Fuller, Loudonville physician and an old classmate of Kettering acted as master of ceremonies. He also sang bass in the quartet comprising "Boss Ket" and three old schoolmates, Miss Hoyland Pippitt, Dr. Fuller and Mrs. Grace Wolfe, with Mrs Fuller at the piano.

Their song, "The Old Familiar Place" was appropriately chosen. and although their harmony might not have passed the inspection of a Toscanini, it was good. At least it provided a lot of enjoyment, both for the singers and the audience

'Chuck' Gets Crows.

Then 'Chuck' Kettering was interviewed by Dr. Fuller. It seems that once upon a time when 'Chuck' was a boy, he had a pet crow, which eventually came to a sad end on a railroad track.

Boylike, he had mourned the loss of his pet. So yesterday, in good natured ribbing, Chuck was presented with two live crows, and his grandfather told the story of the once-loved pet.

'Chuck' wasn't sure after the program, just what he was going to do with those crows.

Much To Be Done.

Following the program, Kettering held a press conference in one of the Flxible company's buses. At the close of the conference, dinner guests adjourned to Central Park where the pageant and program were presented.

Asked in his press conference if he had any plans for future research, Kettering replied, "I'll go along as always There is still a great deal to be done. We don't work just for today or even tomorrow but for 10 and 15 years from now We work for the long-range future"

"We are not even in the kindergarten stage compared to nature," he asserted, "as far as science is concerned We don't know anything. In research we don't work against a deadline. There is no set time for things to be accomplished We in research work out the principles and our engineers do the rest."

Optimistic of Future.

Someone asked Kettering his ideas regarding future transportation fuels, should the present supplies give out.

"So long as the sun shines," he answered, "we don't need to worry about running vehicles."

Kettering has an immense optimism for the future of America and the world

"We are not the finality of the human family by any means," he declared "We can go on and on. Our outlook is all right if we just go ahead. Time is a great help in settling things. Even the peace. We shall achieve that if we argue long enough. When we get too tired arguing, then we'll settle down to peace."

FEAR ANOTHER WAR'S ON WAY

The clashes between Soviet Foreign Minister V. M Molotov and U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes along with the completely outspoken statements of the Australians plus the startling indictment of "British dominated Greece" by the Ukraine have removed all question

In the middle of this there came the sound of shots from Yugoslav fighter planes and the explosion of a falling American transport.

Contrast this with Versailles—also a travesty and tragedy—27 years ago.

At Versailles there were days when Georges Clemenceau, furious with the British attitude toward Germany, refused even to speak to David Lloyd George. But there never was a day during the conference itself when French guns opened fire on the British. Nor was there ever a day when one "ally" described another as "a menace to peace."

If Versailles bred World War II in 20 years, how long will it take the conference of Paris to start a third?

In this bleak pattern, adding to the sense of foreboding that hangs heavily over Paris today, there has been the voice of Gen de Gaulle. Frenchmen and foreigners have varying views of De Gaulle as a politician and as a national leader but very few people question his vision, his feeling for the future.

Long before the second World war he foretold in military terms the kind of war it would be Just before it started he said France would be overrun. After she was overrun, he declared in the darkest days that Germany could never remain a winner. What is he saying now?

At Bar-le-Duc recently he spoke of an inexorable collision of Russia and the United States. This week he criticized the proposed new French constitution on the ground it gave the president too little power.

Behind his words Frenchmen feel was this implication: France was disorganized in 1939. Another 1939 is close at hand and this time she should have a strong hand at the helm equipped with sufficient powers to hold the nation on one course—whichever course that may be

MAKE TRADE

Chinese Communists Capture One City, Chiang Another.

PEIPING—(U.P.)—Chinese Communists, led by makeshift tanks converted from trucks, reportedly captured Tatung today after a 25-day siege At the same time Nationalist troops were reported to have captured Chengteh in reprisal for the siege.

Both reports lacked official confirmation, but the ironic "trade" appeared likely on the basis of previous dispatches.

Chinese newspapers said Nationalist troops smashed into Chengteh, capital of Jehol province, after a ten-day drive. Seven government armies took part in the attack and met only slight resistance, according to field dispatches.

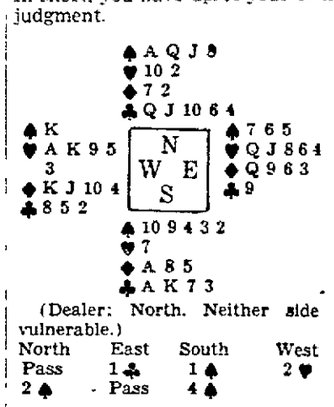
One trouble about a psychic bid is that, if your partner then gets into the bidding, you are afraid that anything you do may mislead him. You don't know what to do next, especially if you have made an unorthodox psychic, in a situation of such a kind that your partner cannot be expected to read it later on. You are gripped by the fear of causing a major disaster, and consequently are tempted to let anything happen that will, without taking any further positive action yourself. In short, you have upset your own judgment.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 ♣	1 ♠	2 ♥
2 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

In response to his partner's unsound psychic, West led the club 8. After the declarer won that, he took out trumps, ran clubs to discard his heart and lost only one diamond trick, making an unbid small slam, thanks to the lead-directing influence of East's psychic.

When East heard his partner bid hearts, as a free call at the two level over South, the sound thing for him to have done was indicate his heart support with a free bid of 3-Hearts over North's 2-Spades. Fortunate enough to have West bid his best suit, East now had a hand plenty good enough for that bid. Making that call would probably have caused his side to bid 5-Hearts over the opponents' eventual 4-Spades. If it happened to draw a double from North or South, the side could have got off cheaply by losing only one trick each in the side suits.

If North or South had bid 5-Spades over it, West probably would have doubled, in which event East should have protected his side by going to 6-Hearts still a good sacrifice that would go down only two. If the opponents then stretched to 6-Spades, it might have been set, because then West probably would have led a heart.

The main point is not to bid psychic unless you can "protect yourself in the clinches."

Tomorrow's Problem.

If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Congressman Finds Voters Interested In Sugar, Housing

Sugar and housing are among the questions of most concern to voters of the 17th Ohio district, Congressman J. Harry McGregor reported today.

He said that among questions most frequently asked during his annual visitations to the six courthouses of the counties in the district were:

"Why don't we have sufficient sugar?"

"Why is farm machinery so scarce?"

"Why are so many materials being shipped to foreign countries.

"What is necessary to secure permission to construct houses and buildings?"

During the courthouse meetings, which started July 29 and were concluded Aug. 10, McGregor said 675 persons called upon him.

About 65 per cent, he said, submitted definite problems for assistance, such as veterans insurance cases, dependency allotments, priority problems, and questions relative to securing surplus property.

Others wanted to know about bringing relatives and friends from foreign countries to the United States and there even were questions about bringing sweethearts.

A number of students asked aid in expediting financial benefits under the GI Bill of Rights.

McGregor reported much interest in the atomic energy program and the problem of establishing a permanent peace. In a statement, he complimented the people of the 17th district "for their knowledge of governmental affairs, both domestic and foreign."

The congressman addressed 17 civic groups, holding an open forum at the conclusion of each. He said approximately 2,700 persons attended these meetings.

The first U. S. patent was issued in 1790 to Samuel Hopkins for a new method of making pot and pearl ashes.

Let's get Down to Earth about DIAMONDS SHALL WE?

A man in love has his head in the clouds and is filled with romantic thoughts.

But, for the moment, let's get down to earth and discuss the matter; without its romantic aspect for your own sake.

A diamond is a simple article of measurable value . . . to an expert. But only to an expert. To the average person like yourself, it is an unknown quantity and you must rely to a great extent on your jeweler's word for its value.

To boil it down even further, regardless of the apparent beauty and size of the diamond you select, it is pretty much up to your jeweler whether you get your money's worth or not.

So you can see right there that selecting your jeweler carefully implies the selection of the diamond ring.

Look at it this way. We, being experts, choose our diamonds with real "know-how". We price them in accordance with our costs. Then we sell them with the knowledge that we intend to be in business for a long time. Most of our customers are sent in or brought in by other customers we have had the satisfying experience of dealing with us.

We do not promise "miracles" or "bargains" . . . "or diamonds by rocket from Mars". But we do promise your full dollar's worth and we're sure you're not looking for more.

FARMER BROWN'S BOY EXPLAINS

Prejudice is stupid;
Always is unjust;
Will not see or listen
'Till it finds it must.
—Farmer Brown's boy.

"Hi, Tommy! What gives?" called a voice.

Farmer Brown's boy turned. Coming across the fields toward him was a familiar figure. It was a man from the village who had once hunted Woodchucks and Hawks and Crows for what he called fun or sport. He had called them vermin and had really believed that in killing these Green Meadow and Green Forest folks he was doing something worth while for the farmers round about. While trying to shoot Johnny Chuck he had met Farmer Brown's boy and the latter had shown him how very wrong he was.

Tommy grinned. "I suppose that is your way of asking where I am going and what I am doing," said he.

"That's a good guess, but it takes more words," said the other and smiled.

"Well, if you must know, I am on the way to find a new home for some misplaced persons," replied Tommy. His grin was infectious.

"You've been trapping," accused his friend. "I thought you didn't believe in trapping."

"There is trapping and trapping. I am for my kind of trapping whenever it can be done. The trouble is, there isn't enough of it done. It is good for everybody concerned," retorted Tommy.

"Hi, Tommy! What gives?" called a voice.

"Except for the ones trapped. Don't tell me it is good for the ones trapped;" cried the onetime hunter, pretending to be shocked.

"Especially good for the ones trapped," replied Tommy chuckling.

The other shook his head. "It can't be. Or, if it can be, how can it be?" said he. "By the way, are you going trapping, or have you already trapped? Are those traps empty, or do they hold poor unfortunate prisoners?"

"They are not empty, but they hold no unfortunate prisoners. They are fortunate, rather than unfortunate. They are two misplaced little persons being saved from themselves," replied Tommy. His grin broadened as he saw the puzzled look on his friend's face. "They are about to be placed. Come along and see what happens," he added.

He led the way to the edge of the Old Pasture where it borders the Green Meadows. A rail fence divides them and on the Old Pasture side bushes have grown the length of the fence. Once there had been a stone wall where part of the fence is. It had tumbled down long ago. Farmer Brown's boy went straight to this old wall. He stopped where just under the fence a hole led down under some stones of the old wall. The bushes grew behind and on both sides of it.

Farmer Brown's boy put the two traps on the ground. One of them he placed a little way out on the Green Meadows. Slowly he lifted the door of the trap until it was wide open. For a moment or two nothing moved. There was no sound. Then there was the sound of small scurrying feet and out ran a little Woodchuck. He must have seen that hole in the ground as soon as the trap opened for he headed straight for it as fast as his short legs could take him. A moment later his black heels disappeared down that hole which had been dug long ago by one of his own relatives but was no longer used.

"One misplaced person is now placed," chuckled Farmer Brown's boy. He picked up the other trap and let the way into the Old Pasture. At the edge of a patch of tangled briers he looked until he found a small opening. A little path led through or under the briers. It had been cut by a Rabbit, but by the signs Farmer Brown's boy knew that no Rabbit was living there now. He set down the trap and opened the door. Out jumped Little Wobblenose and into that little path. In a moment his funny little white tail disappeared under the bushes and briers.

"And now another misplaced person is no longer misplaced," said Tommy.

"Where were they misplaced?" asked his hunter friend.

"In my garden. Now it is safe, those scamps are safe, and we'll all be happy," explained Tommy as he picked up his traps.

The next story: "Con-ser-va-tion."

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, AUGUST 30, 1946

Remember, it is NEXT season that Bill Veeck plans to make the Cleveland Indians a winning team.

Average annual income in Mississippi is reported as $556—lowest in the nation—which may at least partially account for Bilbo.

Auto gadgets seem to be in the museum class. An exhibit of highly desirable accessories was shown in Chicago recently—but they weren't for sale.

Wages and Production Tied Together

"AMERICAN LABOR has a natural interest in the relationship of wages and costs," says the New York Times editorially. "It has a right to set its sights on a steadily higher standard of living, and it will be a bad day for the country if it ever loses sight of that objective. But the shortest and straightest road to this goal does not lie through sharp wage increases, if unaccompanied by an increase of output, for this merely brings higher prices to consumers, and wage-earners are themselves consumers. The right method is increased production, through higher skill, better work and the aid of modern industrial science."

The Times' editorial was occasioned by a report from Detroit that the CIO and the United Automobile Workers "have abandoned any thought of new wage increases in favor of an all-out effort to preserve the present purchasing power of the dollar. . . . The UAW has decided, in concert with the CIO, that to make a fresh wage demand at this time might set an inflationary spiral in motion."

This is the very heart of the labor-wage controversy. Ever-increasing wages without a relative increase in productivity can benefit no one in the long run. Every general rise in prices further reduces labor's "take home" pay. It is good to know that some important labor groups are recognizing this—and passing the word along to others.

About Those Vacant Houses

ONE MANSFIELDER who has been looking for a house to rent is annoyed by observing a number of houses around town that are vacant, but that are found, upon inquiry, to be neither for rent nor for sale.

"Why," he asks, "should owners of these properties refuse to rent them during this acute housing shortage, instead of leaving them vacant while many people cannot find a place to live?"

Why, indeed! But there again you are up against one of those peculiar quirks of "human nature" which brooks no interference with "personal liberty" and which sometimes involves eccentricity or over-emphasized sentimentality—so what's to be done about it?

Man Says Women Aren't Safe Drivers

AKRON, which frequently steps into the news in pleasant or unpleasant ways, is now in the midst of a "battle of the sexes," which promises an interesting exchange of verbal brickbats.

It all came about when Gerald A. Barker, executive secretary of the Summit county safety council, made some adversely critical remarks about women drivers—not in a mild sort of way, but really vitriolic.

He said, for instance, that "After careful deliberation, I've decided they are not fit to sit behind the wheel of a car"—with some more to that general effect, and winding up with the stinger: "I suppose we've been too courteous and kind to our fairer sex. If they are going to drive cars then it's time they learned how."

Can you imagine that! And can you imagine the quick and irate response that came from Akron women?

It was Mrs. Stanley Emmitt, president of the Ohio Parent-Teacher association, who led the attack with: "I think he had better take another look at traffic statistics before making any more remarks about us. Women are perfectly capable of handling any vehicle. . . . I've never seen a woman take the chances with a car that most men do," etc.

It's the increase in traffic accidents and fatalities in Summit county thus far this year that opened the subject for discussion.

The Akron Beacon Journal, in the midst of the furor, takes a discreetly neutral position on the subject of whether women "are fit to sit behind the wheel of a car." The editorial conclusion at the scene of conflict is that "Some aren't. Most are. The same would apply to men."

Preparing Vets for Business Careers

WHEN Eric A. Johnson gave his farewell address upon his retirement as president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, he emphasized the importance of capitalism encouraging greater opportunity for all, and added that there can be no equal opportunity without fair competition.

He defined competition as that which provides opportunity for ideas, for leadership, for thinking. It holds prices at reasonable levels and makes for better living.

The National Retail Dry Goods association recently held its first Retailer-Veteran conference in Altoona, Pa. During this meeting the merchandising craft was discussed. It is the intention of the association to hold similar meetings throughout the country, in order to aid veterans who wish to enter the distributive field, either with some company or in their own stores. Veterans will be able under this arrangement to discuss practically any phase of retailing and receive instruction and advice from experts.

The association is carrying out the very thing the retiring Chamber of Commerce president pointed out as vital in the preservation of capitalism. True capitalism recognizes the supremacy of the individual and glorifies opportunity.

The fact that "Forever Amber" had to be "cleaned up" for film purposes gives an idea that cleanness is deemed more essential in visible and audible form than on the printed page.

Word comes that a Trans-Jordan "gazelle boy" can run at the speed of 50 miles an hour—but it is not recorded that he is in the message-delivery service.

Anyhow, Eleanor gets two new front teeth as the outcome of going to sleep at the wheel—and the dentist is to be complimented on the result.

It was the Atlanta Constitution (of all things!) that recently cited Senator Claghorn as "the only successful Confederate."

That old admonition, "Do as I say, not as I do," seems to apply neatly to the government's preachment of economy.

WHY WORRY ABOUT THE FUTURE?

Henry J. Kaiser Tells His Views, Confident That Future Is Bright

(Editor's Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, his column will be written by several distinguished guest columnists—today, by Henry J. Kaiser, the famous west coast industrialist.)

* * *

By HENRY J. KAISER

SAN FRANCISCO—Almost exactly a year ago to the day, I took advantage of Drew Pearson's first offer to ride free on the Merry-Go-Round. He is vacationing again. Drew may need vacations, but our democracy cannot afford one.

Some people tell me we're not going to recover. They say we're headed toward inevitable disaster; that we're well on our way to the dogs, and that nothing short of a miracle can save mankind from oblivion. I don't believe it. I don't think the people of the United States believe it.

Our way of life will stand any test of competitive comparison. So let's think about Drew's slogan—to work, fight, give, to make democracy live!

How about taking a look at the so-called "horrible" things that are happening to us. Some say, "TOMORROW we're going to have inflation. TOMORROW either the Communists or the Fascists are going to take over. TOMORROW there will be no church because we have turned our faces from Christianity. And worst of all—TOMORROW there will be war.

I do not believe a word of it. It is like saying we've suddenly decided to become sheep, not men.

If I were to believe what I hear, there would be no people in this world any more. There would be only labels—an endless, insulting array of labels. In the last few years, my friends, the men with whom I work, my competitors, all the millions of our country and the world have supposedly sacrificed their identity and become liberals or reactionaries, Communists or Fascists, labor or management, Democrats or Republicans, dark-skinned or white, and I do not like it.

Confused Thinking.

I wonder if we're not guilty of the most confused thinking the world has ever seen. It is high time we were realizing that we are still men, not labels, capable of setting goals and achieving them; willing to fight for the things in which we believe—not with treacherous weapons, but with the vitality of our own beliefs and the strength of our purpose.

Not long ago we contacted the steel industrialists of the East in a search for sheet steel. In the process we got irritated and we think they did, too. We wanted sheet steel to build automobiles. They said they couldn't give it to us. We thought we knew why. We didn't like the reasons. But they didn't call us Anarchists and we didn't call them Fascists. Maybe we thought they believed in Princes of Privilege.

They didn't give us the sheet steel we wanted; we got it another way. Our production is continuing on its way without the world falling about our ears.

Trouble is only opportunity in work clothes. Take an example from our own experience. The West has always needed a steel industry. In 1942 we built Fontana steel mill, in the face of obstacles which, in terms of tomorrow, couldn't be overcome. But it was built for war production with the money we were forced to borrow because no one else would build it.

When the war ended, the West needed the continued operation of that mill. We were told Fontana was hopeless—a steel industry in California would be a "dead duck." Competitively it couldn't be done. We couldn't continue to operate. Our fixed charges would eat us up.

West Needs Steel.

Close down? Hardly. The West had to have steel. And it has steel. Fontana is operating today still bearing the tremendous burden of wartime evaluation. It is producing at as low an operating cost as any plant in the nation. It will continue to produce steel, because steel should be made in the west.

I can't tell you how all its problems are going to be met. I only know that they will be met as they arise, and that the destiny of the West isn't to be sold short because there's trouble. Fontana cannot make its full contribution to the West when it is competitively throttled by the Great Steel corporation buying the government-owned Geneva steel plant at twenty cents on the dollar and Fontana being forced to pay the government one-hundred cents on the dollar of its war cost. Fontana now is a gateway releasing some of the great potential economic strength of our western country. It couldn't be done . . . but it's being done.

I have never had so much fun with anything as I have been having with the automobile business. They said we couldn't do it. But show windows all over the country are giving the answer to those who said we couldn't do it. The most friendly of critics said it would take us a year to turn our first cars off the assembly line. We did it in seven months.

They said we couldn't get any steel to make the cars. We got some. Not enough, it's true. They said we couldn't get a staff together. But we did. They said the cars wouldn't run. The cars run. They said the car would be a crackpot job. They now know that it's the most practical and modern car being made anywhere.

New Cars Coming.

Naturally, you readers of the Merry-Go-Round like to get the news and get it first. There is an ample precedent for this made through the years by the conductor of this pillar of information. So I'll let you know that our Willow Run assembly line is moving; cars are now being shipped to our dealers. From hundreds each month to thousands. Next year by the tens of thousands.

Of course, it's going to be tough. It always has been tough. It was tough in those critical days of the war, but we made it.

And now our goals are not the goals of death and destruction but production for a world in which we can all have our proper share of responsibility and reward.

If there has been an evil selfishness in certain quarters in our nation that must come out and the people must know. If there has been a callous disregard for the good of all our people, we must search it out. But those are things which no man of integrity need fear.

Those are the steps of a great people—clearing the path for an unlimited future. Those are the things it is good to talk to you about in Drew Pearson's column while he is on vacation.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, August 29, 1926.

Delegation of Mansfield Elks went to Cedar Point to attend state reunion.

Two motorists were arrested from leaving cars parked on street at night without tail light showing.

Miss Lina Walter and William J. Armstrong were married by Rev. W. Elmer Bailey.

Ohio State university conferred master of arts degree on B. F. Fulks, principal of Mansfield high school.

William A. McBride, 70, died at his hme, 107 South Foster street.

The Misses Edna and Mabel Ward returned from three months European trip.

Word was received that Ray D. Nissley, 38, former Mansfield resident had died in California.

Miss Carmen Black and L. H. Zeigler were married by Rev. Walter A. Staub.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

A French provisional government, headed by General Charles de Gaulle, was set up in Paris on August 30, 1944, after consultations between de Gaulle and leaders of the underground. All parties were represented.

Dave Boone Says:

GOSH, but that release of photographs of Harry Truman in swimming was poor timing, considering that there are so many bathing-beauty shows going on everywhere in America this week.

* * *

I think it was done without Mr. Hannegan's consent, even if they kept Harry entirely under water except for his head.

* * *

The purpose eludes me. It doesn't hurt swimming, perhaps, but where does it help the Democratic party?

* * *

In the water Harry looks a little more exciting than Cal Coolidge but not quite as good as Grover Cleveland. That's all I can say.

THERE'S a new magazine story out at space rates on what happened at the Atlantic Charter Conference.

* * *

But it's interesting to think of all that history waiting to be told as soon as the bids are opened. School children of the future will have to lug back numbers of magazines to "history A" to get a passing mark.

There are several more Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conferences still to be explained. . . . Fortunately there are also more sons to explain them.

ODD FACT

The original American crossword puzzle was called a word-cross and was published in a New York paper in 1913.

Assignment: America

—By KENNETH L. DIXON

Hotels Overcrowded, No Relief Sighted.

CHICAGO—Big, bulky and black-eyebrowed Fred Joyce sits in his office in Chicago's Palmer House hotel and faces his tyrannical telephone with all the bleak and fatalistic bitterness of a martyr confronting the arena's leading lion.

"Reservations," he will say into the fiendish instrument at times, "reservations . . ." and his voice is a vocal photo-finish between frenzy and frustration.

Mr. Joyce does not work for reservations. Technically, he has no connection with that department of the chain of hostelries owned by C. N. Hilton, an ex-shoestring operator from the southwest who now is the world's biggest hotel man.

Mr. Joyce is the hotel chain's chief public relations man. In normal times, his duties consist of beating the drums loudly in order to entice the paying customers into one of the Hilton hotels—meaning either the Palmer House or the Stevens while in Chicago, or one of the dozen others elsewhere in the land.

But right now, like other establishments which provide the weary wayfarer with bed and board across the country, the Hilton hotels have about as much use for a press agent as Bob Feller does for a third right arm.

It is a matter of absolute record that the organization's two Windy City inns are booked solidly for the remainder of 1946 and—so asserts Brother Joyce—most of 1947.

And, since these two upper class flophouses each hold world records in their individual rights—the Stevens with 3,000 rooms and the Palmer House with 20,327,000 cubic feet of traveler-storage space—it might be well to investigate the cause of their current headaches, inasmuch as the same ailments are affecting all hotels throughout the nation these days.

The reason friend Joyce says "reservations" when he answers his phone is that, like every other person even remotely connected with the hotel business, the majority of his day is taken up with persons who presume he will be able to get them a room or two for the night.

The reason he no longer is overjoyed when newspapermen round the bend and drop anchor in his office is because he no longer craves publicity aimed at increasing the chain's clientele—at least, not right now.

"Please," he will plead with you, "please write things which will keep people happy toward us. We wish to retain the public's goodwill for future days which, mayhap, will not be so halcyon. Also, we have a number of excellent—in fact, world famous—eating and entertainment establishments in this and other hotels which we would be happy if they would frequent with frequency, so to speak. But please do not write anything which will inspire more people to ask us for rooms, right now!"

At this point, Mr. Joyce's anguish is obvious and touching.

And not without reason. For one thing, before he or any other executive of the chain can get down to the business of the day—answering the phone—each morning, they must wait until the last cot has been cleared out of the business offices.

Each night, each of the two hotels houses from seven to 700 extra transient citizens who might be regular customers in normal times—and does it free.

It is a matter of setting up cots in every available space in the buildings, and since they do not provide the type of comfort and convenience the hotels like to advertise, no charge is assessed for their use.

The hotels hope, of course, that the boys will remember them in days to come, but meanwhile this service is somewhat expensive, not to mention being a strain on already frazzled employe nerves!

What then can you do if you work for the joint?

Joyce can tell you. You forget your regular job when you pick up the phone every time it rings, and—

"Reservations," you say. "Reservations . . . no . . . no . . . I'm sorry. . . ."

We gently draw the curtain.

Timely Editorial

Don't Subsidize Job Dodgers.

Seventy-nine thousand persons are drawing unemployment compensation in Detroit. Yet the big automobile companies say they can't get enough workers.

This situation exists to some extent in many other cities. It is bound to result in charges that unemployment compensation has become a racket for great numbers of people who don't really want to work.

The purpose of unemployment compensation is to provide a cushion for those who lose jobs and can't get others through no fault of their own.

In the interest of all workers whose jobs are taxed to maintain the unemployment funds and who may have to rely upon jobless benefits to sustain them in some future depression, officials administering the funds should be vigilant to see that no part of the money is dissipated in encouraging voluntarily idleness at a time when good jobs go begging.—Cleveland Press.

An Example of Devoted Public Service.

WASHINGTON—The man who stood as a symbol of law and order in the lawless '20s is retiring in a few days. Having given 40 of his 58 years to government service, Elmer I. Irey intends to take a well deserved rest.

Irey, in recent years chief coordinator of the treasury's law enforcement agencies, stands as an example of devotion to public duty. And such examples are almost as rare in the roaring boomtime '40s as they were in the '20s.

The lawlessness of that other postwar era was really something. Under the spur of the demand for illegal liquor, law enforcement broke down in city after city. While Chicago was the most flagrant example, the anarchy that prevailed in other centers was nearly as scandalous.

The federal government seemed powerless to check it. The disrespect for law bred by this carnival of crime undermined all standards, and we are still suffering the consequences.

But through it all Irey, as head of the intelligence unit of the bureau of internal revenue, fought to enforce at least one federal law—the income tax law.

His extraordinary success in preserving this one federal standard is a tribute to his persistence, his resourcefulness and his zeal. It was, of course, a grim commentary on our sense of values that murderers and thieves could be caught only because they failed to pay taxes on their fabulous spoils. But caught they were.

Irey and his men painstakingly spun a net of evidence around Al Capone and his gang. Capone had believed himself beyond all law. He had boasted that he was supreme. While they worked often in mortal peril, Irey and his men relied on thorough, patient investigation of the Capone empire rather than on sensational, publicity-making methods.

After Capone, other gangster overlords were sent to prison and their lawless conspiracies destroyed by the same methods. Later, even more powerful men, who believed their cloak of outward respectability would protect them, went down before this persistent nemesis and his devoted staff.

Moe Annenberg, who amassed a fortune in a racing service, Enoch Johnson, long-time boss of Atlantic City, Missouri's "Boss" Tom Pendergast, the heirs of Huey Long's little dictatorship in Louisiana—they all fell before Irey's unflagging pursuit of crookedness.

Millions of dollars flowed into the treasury as a result of the hundreds of cases he made. Far more important, the nation learned that the law was not powerless and supine.

While Irey's contribution is exceptional, there are many, many men and women in government service who give the same selfless devotion. Too often their merit goes unrecognized. In President Truman's search for men to fill policy-making positions—a search he finds harassing and often fruitless—he might well explore the lower levels of government for talent.

Recently I reread Theodore Roosevelt's autobiography, one of the most meaningful and fascinating documents in our recent history. T. R. speaks of his difficulties, as governor of New York and as president, in getting first-rate men to accept irksome and arduous government positions.

But he did gather round him men of capacity and disinterested zeal. One reason was his own enthusiasm for the causes he pursued, such as conservation and preparedness.

The president and his top policy-makers must supply the steam. Exceptional men will not be attracted by what appears to be a half-hearted and indifferent effort. Morale is as important in government as it is in an army.

The trend today is all away from government. But if we are to live up to our responsibilities in the world, then this trend must be reserved and men of the capacity of Elmer Irey must be recruited and retained to do the business that is everybody's business.

Farmer's Diary: "Half an Ounce of Cheese."

I WAITED at the counter of a country grocery while a comely young matron tasted a morsel of cheese from a tempting block displayed beneath a bell jar, and said, "I'll take a pound."

The clerk was a green hand—a gawky, awkward youth, who tried hard to do the right thing. Too hard. Long knife in hand, he measured off what he thought would be the exact weight, and with a thin clean paper laid first upon the scales, he laid the cheese upon the smooth white platform. It was overweight—a half ounce. Very businesslike in manner, he cut a sliver off, and in his effort to put it back beneath the jar, let it slip off the counter. He threw it into the garbage, with a shrug.

The attractive customer hastily paid her bill, and went quickly out, with dissatisfaction upon her face.

"What made her mad, do you know?" the youth asked me.

"She thought you might have given her that little more, with no loss, since you threw it away anyhow," I told him.

"But didn't I give her what she ordered, and what she paid for?"

"Yes—you did that. But it was so little—a half ounce of cheese—and it made so much difference. She might have told her friends how generous you were in weight—now she'll say you were niggardly and downright wasteful besides. Good feeling is worth more than anything else, in dealing with people".

"Well—maybe you have it right," he said slowly.

"It isn't always the business place that's most convenient or has the biggest stock of goods, that draws the most trade. If you stop to analyze why you keep going back to a store it's because of a gracious clerk, or an artistic arrangement of goods—or because someone will take special pains to help you find what you want, and wrap it after closing hours, if need be".

"What special store are you thinking of?" he asked.

So I told him about one time long ago, when I spent an hour enjoying the pipe organ music at John Wanamaker's in Philadelphia—entirely free, as a gift to his patrons by the founder of what was then one of the great merchandising institutions of this country.

Another Victory for Penicillin.

WHEN the marvelous healing properties of penicillin were first discovered, supplies were so short that mercy demanded they be used only against violent, acute and fatal infections.

Today, fortunately, there is more than enough of this yellow magic for the very ill, and so doctors have been able to test its effects in other less dangerous ailments. One of these, in which recent work with penicillin seems hopeful is bronchiectasis.

In bronchiectasis the bronchi or the small tubes in the lungs, through which air passes, are enlarged. There is a combination of inflammation and wasting of the tissues, with the result that scar tissue may, in time, replace the lining membrane in various spots.

Symptoms are usually confined to bouts of coughing during which a great deal of sputum with a bad odor is brought up. Once started, the disorder grows progressively worse, until at last, the patient may be made miserable by the persistent cough.

So far as is known, there is no way to restore the normal structure of the bronchi once bronchiectasis has developed. But according to Dr. Sydney Bassin and his co-workers of New York, treatment with penicillin does much to check the symptoms. Their work gives hope that in the future this disease may be controlled before permanent damage to the bronchi has been done.

Three ways of administering the penicillin were tried by the New York doctors. It was given by injection into a muscle, by breathing it into the windpipe and bronchi, and by a combination of these methods. The treatment was carried out on ten men and two women. The patients varied in age from 16 to 30 years.

The length of treatment varied from four to 115 days. It was found that best results were obtained when it was given by breathing it into the windpipe.

As a result of the treatment, it was found that the amount of sputum was considerably lessened, its odor was removed and there was a great improvement in the symptoms. These changes were maintained as long as the penicillin was continued. When the treatment was stopped, the symptoms tended to come back again.

It seems that it may be necessary to continue the penicillin treatment indefinitely, but in view of the good results obtained, such treatment would appear worth while.

CHANGE SCHOOL HOURS TO MEET BUS EMERGENCY

Push Millersburg-Hardy Class Opening and Closing Time Up One Hour.

MILLERSBURG—The time for opening and closing school at the Millersburg-Hardy school has been set from 9.30 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. for the next two weeks or until the new school buses arrive, Supt. J. Cline Slack announced today.

This is one hour later than the usual opening and closing time but it is necessary in order to fit in with the bus schedule, Slack said.

The new school buses ordered by the school board are due to arrive Sept. 18, according to Slack. It was thought that perhaps the opening of school would have to be postponed until they arrived, but arrangements have been made with the Berlin and Killbuck schools to hire their bus drivers to transport pupils of the Millersburg-Hardy school. They must transport their own pupils first, then they will give their service to the Millersburg school.

The board of education will hold a special meeting tonight to hire the drivers for the new school buses. There are a number of applicants, Supt. Slack states.

John Baynas, former coach at the Millersburg high school, will return to the teaching staff. He will teach industrial arts, physical education and assist Coach Paul Swaykus.

Butler Schools Set For New Session

BUTLER—Butler village schools will open Tuesday with only a two-hour school session the first day, Supt E. H. Rider announced.

Buses will pick up the country children at the same times they did last year, Rider said, but the hours on the opening day will be only from 9 to 11 a. m.

Teachers will meet at the school at 2:30 p. m. Labor day. Only a home economics teacher is needed to complete the staff.

ARMY RECALLS PASTOR

MILLERSBURG—Rev. Ira W. Matthews, pastor of a Christian church in Chicago, Ill., and former pastor of the Millersburg Church of Christ, has been recalled to service as an army chaplain. He is to be assigned to Fitzsimmons General hospital in Denver, Colo., and will report there Sept. 18.

Rev. and Mrs. Matthews spent Tuesday night and Wednesday in Millersburg.

PILES ARE NEVER "MILD"

DANGER IN NEGLECT

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves, instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in the back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief — written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

Driving Class To Be Offered Galion High School Pupils

GALION—An automobile driving course for pupils 16 years old and older will be offered at Galion high school this year under the sponsorship of the Galion Automobile club.

Thirty pupils have signed up for the course, which will be taught by E M Hixson, a certified driving teacher. Hixson, who is also assistant coach, has had special training in automobile driving instruction at Pennsylvania State college and taught a course of driving in Parkersburg, W. Va., from 1937 to 1945.

Earlier this year Grace Thomas, secretary of the Galion Automobile club, conferred with the board of education and urged that a driving course be offered in the Galion schools. Mrs. Thomas has sponsored the school safety patrol here for a number of years and last year served as chairman of the safety committee of the Galion P.-T. A. council Board members and Supt. M A. Povenmire realized the merits of such a course and gave it their stamp of approval.

The Galion Automobile club is providing textbooks and the automobile, which is being furnished through the courtesy of the Gerrow Motor sales.

It will be about two weeks before the automobile arrives, but it will take about a week and a half of theory in the classroom before pupils will be ready to get in the car for instruction. Dual controls for the car have arrived at the Automobile club and are ready for installation in the new car.

A half day, each morning, of the school week will be devoted to the course. There will be one period for classroom theory, and the other two periods of the morning will be spent in the car. Groups of four students each will be taken out for actual driving experience. Rotation of groups will make it possible for a student to be out in a car five times every two weeks. When the semester is completed, a student will have six hours behind the wheel and 15 hours in the car. He will then be ready for examination.

In teaching the course Hixson plans to have a "spot" map made of Galion, and probably of Crawford county. Pins on the mat will mark locations of accident fatalities. Students will be assigned to contact authorities to find out the cause and time of the accidents. Different colored pins will be used to signify the type, cause and time of accident. Students will also study the time of day in which most accidents occur. He said that in Parkersburg where this survey was made it was determined that most of the accidents were between 4 and 5 p. m., a time when traffic is heavy and people are tired and returning from work.

In cities where the course was offered, Hixson watched figures as late as 1942 and never found an accident fatality of any of the young people who had been taught how to drive in the schools.

MARIANNE JACKSON IS BRIDE OF THURSDAY

Weds John Wilmes, Jr., In Gown Worn By Paternal Grandmother; Reception at Bride's Home.

FOR HER MARRIAGE to John F. Wilmes, jr., yesterday morning in St. Peter's Catholic church, Miss Marianne Jackson wore her paternal grandmother's wedding gown of ivory satin, made with a tight bodice with sweetheart neckline trimmed with pearl buttons, and long sleeves edged with a satin ruffle. The full skirt was trimmed with rows of chantilly lace and was gathered into a bustle and extended in a circular train. Her fingertip length veil was held in place by a chantilly lace halo. As her flowers she carried a white orchid with white gladioli and asters.

Msgr. R. C. Goebel officiated at the high nuptial mass uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen C. Jackson, 118 Columbia avenue and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilmes sr., of Marion.

The bride was given in marriage by her father before an altar banked with baskets of gladioli, palms and ferns.

She was attended by Miss Janice McCartney as maid of honor and Miss Rita Jayne Hut, cousin of the bride, of Marion served as bridesmaid. Miss McCartney wore a blue faile and net gown and Miss Hut was gowned in yellow. Both carried bouquets of delphinum and yellow roses and wore headbands of the same flowers.

Jack McAndrew, cousin of the bridegroom, of Marion was best man with Edward McAndrew, uncle of the bridegroom, and Robert Wilmes cousin of the bridegroom, both of Marion as ushers.

Mrs. Jackson chose for her daughter's wedding a light blue street length dress with black accessories while Mrs. Wilmes was gowned in grey wool with black accessories. Both wore corsages of gardenias.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the Houston tea room. The bridal table was decorated with a four tiered wedding cake. Approximately 90 guests attended the reception held at the bride's home.

When leaving for her wedding trip to Niagara Falls the new Mrs. Wilmes wore a black and white print dress with black accessories and a light green top coat. Her corsage was a white orchid.

The couple plan to reside temporarily with the parents of the bridegroom. Mr. Wilmes jr. will return to college in the fall.

The former Miss Jackson is a graduate of Mansfield senior high school and at the time of her marriage was employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

Mr. Wilmes, a graduate of St. Mary's high school in Marion, attended John Carroll university in Cleveland and Columbia university prior to his service of three and a half years in the U. S. Navy from which he was discharged with the rank of Ensign. At present he is with the War Assets Administration in Marion.

Out of town guests attended the wedding from Marion, Cleveland, Willoughby, Upper Sandusky, Gary, Toledo, Columbus, Los Angeles and Omaha.

Modern Women Strive For Victorian Quaintness

By MME. QUI VIVE

Once upon a time when women gathered in friendly confab, they gabbed about their pet peeves, their pet pains, the woman next door, their difficulties with household help. Now the conversation starts right on politics, national affairs, international relations.

While the frail sex is throwing its weight around, trying to help settle a mad world, Lady Fashion is transforming them into fluffy girls. Perhaps she is trying to strike a balance between seriousness and frivolity. If we ever needed gay array, it is now. Look at the cute little bonnets women are wearing. Listen to the talk of dress experts about the doll waist. Note the popularity of the bang.

There appears to be a conspiracy to make us look as women looked forty years ago, when the pompadour flourished like the green bay tree. Frocks are designed for full bosoms and small waists. Formals have full, flowing skirts from which the feet, like little mice, steal in and out. Exotic, long-legged, sheathed ladies seem to have gone into retirement.

Jewelry is gaining in popularity, though we have learned a lot about using discretion in the choice of ornaments. Dress is secondary to the wearer; ornaments are secondary to the dress. Costume jewelry is reproducing old-fashioned designs that add to our present-day quaintness. Grandma may have some precious items laid away in her treasure box. Might coax her to let you take a look. You may find something darling, be the envy of your friends. Who knows?

When you are arrayed in quaint attire, you should assume the lady-like manner of poise and quietude. With soft, flowing skirts one must move with grace and rhythm. Depend upon your backbone. Don't let your tummy guide you. We wish that young ladies would renounce the slouchy pose. It just isn't pretty.

Endeavor, when sitting, to assume a regal pose of the shoulders, arms at ease and close to the sides. If you keep your head held high, your figure will have grace. Chest up, too, if you please.

Incidentally, along with these other changes, one observes that the rouge pad is having a rest. Reddened lips supply sufficient coloring. To compensate for the loss of factory blushes, one can apply eye shadows—ever so discreetly. Only in the evening, of course. They're likely to look garish during daylight hours.

LIGHT INFESTATION OF SAN JOSE SCALE ON APPLE TREE
OYSTER SHELL SCALE (ENLARGED)
OYSTER SHELL SCALE ON TREE TRUNK (ENLARGED)
8-30

Keep Sharp Look-Out for Injurious

Scales can cause serious damage to fruit trees and this is the time to keep a sharp look-out for them.

In commercial orchards the San Jose scale is kept under control, but frequently the home gardener loses an apple tree because these scale insects have been neglected year after year. There are several generations a year. Infested trees have thin foliage, lack vigor and the fruit is spotty.

Trees lightly infected show small grayish specks on the surface of the bark, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden Graph. When this infestation becomes heavy, the entire tree surface is covered with a gray layer of overlapping scales.

The best method of control is to use a dormant spray, either lime-sulphur, miscible oil or an oil emulsion.

The oyster shell scale is brown and shaped somewhat like an oyster. It is about one-tenth of an inch long, and is illustrated, greatly enlarged. The scales cluster on the bark of trees and when the infestation is heavy the bark becomes entirely covered.

Unless controlled, oyster shell scale will result in the weakening of the tree. The leaves become smaller and are speckled with yellow. If the infestation is not checked, the trees often die.

To control oyster shell scale use a dormant spray, oil or lime sulphur. If any scales are missed by the dormant spray, use a contact insecticide when the yellowish young are hatching and active.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

A man who was driving across the continent put up for the night at a rural hostelry. The view from his second-story window was lovely, he thought — peaceful meadows and a beautifully kept lawn directly below.

During the night, however, there was a cloudburst, and when the man awoke, the ground had disappeared under water fully five feet high. This was surprising enough, but then the man spotted something even more unusual. A straw hat floated by, reached the boundary fence, turned around, and floated back! Three times this phenomenon was repeated, and the man rushed to the proprietor with a hushed, "Do you see what I see?"

"Sure," laughed the proprietor. "That's Uncle Henry. Stubborn old cuss. He swore he was goin' to mow that lawn this morning, come hell or high water!"

An '88,000 limousine shot by a jalopy on a country road. The driver leaned out and hollered, "Hey, rube! What's making that awful rattle in that chariot of yours?"

"I reckon," answered the owner of the jalopy, "it must be the $7,500 jingling in my pocket."

KETTERING SINGS AGAIN: Three old schoolmates of Charles F. Kettering joined with the inventor in singing their class song during a short program presented at the Kettering farm yesterday after the dinner for more than 500 friends, relatives, and business associates. Pictured at left are (left to right), Miss Hoyland Pippitt, Kettering, Dr. Gaillard B. Fuller and Mrs. Grace Wolfe. Mrs. Fuller is playing the piano. Some of the more than 5,000 persons who crowded into Central park in Loudonville to witness the pageant, parade, presentation of the scroll to Kettering, and the cutting of the giant birthday cake are shown in middle photo. Inset shows Robert Momm, manager of the Loudonville theater, who was general manager of the celebration, one of the largest in the village history. At right is one of the two early model automobiles that were driven in the parade under their own power by two costumed auto enthusiasts. Early vintage buggies, surreys, and two old-styled high wheel bicycles also participated in the parade which showed transportation modes of the turn of the century.

PRESENT SCROLL TO KETTERING

5,000 Persons Join Loudonville in Tribute to Inventor.

phasized, "and by understanding move forward in our application of the great mysteries of science and nature for the benefit of man."

Concert Opens Ceremony.

A concert by an American Legion band opened the afternoon ceremonies in Central park, where a stage for presentation of the pageant and gallery for the seating of the more than three hundred distinguished guests were constructed.

Mayor Edward L. Smith, of Loudonville, gave an address of welcome and Col. Edward A. Deeds, chairman of the board of the National Cash Register company, introduced close friends and relatives and business associates of Kettering's. Among them Orville Wright, William S. Knudsen, director of General Motors corporation, and Gar Wood, Detroit industrialist and speed boat builder.

A five-scene pageant followed, each scene depicting a phase of life in and around Loudonville during the last quarter of the 19th century.

Highlights of the pageant presented by residents of Loudonville and Millersburg were the square dance to the music of old-time fiddlers, a coon chase with a real coon, and a style show to which nearly every attic trunk in Loudonville and vicinity contributed.

Bathing Beauties, Too.

Hit of the style show were Betty Drake and Charles Kirkham who modeled rakish bathing suits of that early era.

Three early model automobiles, two of which ran under their own power, participated in the parade showing the modes of transportation back at the turn of the century.

One of the autos, a 1909 Cadillac, sent down by General Motors especially for the celebration, refused to run and was pulled in the parade by a team of horses. In front of the stands, the driver, Jess Hawkins, of Loudonville, made a last attempt to get the ancient car started and even called on "Boss Ket," who had similar experiences with Cadillac as a young man, but their combined efforts were of no avail and the team continued to provide motive power.

Display In Contrast.

An array of new cars and three buses, products of the Flxible company, including the new '47 model which the company hopes to get into mass production soon, made a contrasting display of latest models of transportation and concluded the pageant and parade.

Guests included Kettering's son, Eugene, assistant chief engineer at the Lagrange, Ill., Diesel Locomotive Works of General Motors; his son's wife and their two daughters; his grandson, Charles; his brother, Adam, who lives in Ashland, and his sister, Mrs. Daisy Hyde, who lives at the farm.

The G. M. dignitaries, all vice presidents or directors, included Knudsen, Harlow H. Curtice, George W. Codrington of Cleveland, Paul Garrett, Ormond E. Hunt, Mayard D. Kunkwe, Roy McClure, Charles S. Mott, E. V. Rippingille and W. A. Chryst.

Other noted guests were Paul W. Litchfield, chairman of the board of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company; W. H. J. Behm, president of the Winters National Bank and Trust company of Dayton; S. C. Allen, president of the National Cash Register company; George Actrim, president of the Winters bank; George Walther of the Dayton Engineering Laboratories company and W. B. Alexander, vice president of Antioch college at Yellow Springs, O.
